

9th Annual Meeting of the Minds Symposium

Opioid Epidemic

STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY NEUROSCIENCES INSTITUTE

SESSION TOPICS

- With and Without Opioid Analgesia: Risks for Cardiopulmonary and Respiratory Arrest, Risks of Poorly Controlled Postoperative Pain
- The Impact of Maternal Opioid Management Support (MOMS)
- Research Implications for Clinical Practice
- Update on Pharmacotherapeutics for Opioid Use Disorder
- A Biomedical Informatics and Population Approach to the Opioid Epidemic on Long Island
- Emotional Processing in the Social Environment and Vulnerability to Opioid Reinforcement
- Toward Biomarkers of the Addicted Brain: Using Neuroimaging to Predict Sustained Abstinence and Relapse

Friday, October 19, 2018

8 am to 1 pm

Charles B. Wang Center, Stony Brook University

KEYNOTE

Opioids and Opioid Use Disorder:
How Science Informs Policy (or Should)

BERTHA MADRAS, PHD

Director, Laboratory of Addiction Neurobiology,
Division of Alcohol and Drug Abuse,
Division of Basic Neuroscience,
McLean Hospital; Professor of Psychobiology,
Department of Psychiatry,
Harvard Medical School

Open to physicians and other healthcare professionals, researchers, students and anyone with an interest in the opioid epidemic.

Free. Breakfast provided.

Discussion and audience Q&A after presentations.

Register by October 12.

stonybrookmedicine.edu/meetingoftheminds

Stony Brook
Neurosciences Institute